2 Michael Alig's **Club Rub**

You all missed Peter Stringfellow's Birthday party because you weren't invited and we were. Frank Bruno was there, do you know who that is, boy's and girls? He's the man who is going to fight Mike Tyson and have an affair with Robin Givens. Our very own KAT had a date on her arm, none other than Robin Leach himself. "There's only so much champagne and caviar a girl can take!" she says. Ann Rice wants to use Keoki's name in her next book, "King of the Damned," and Michael Musto and Christina are paganistic witches! Both were spotted outside their favorite shop of remedies- Magikal Childe. Now we know the reason for those 2 major success stories! Meanwhile, Frank, "It's my party and I'll cry if I want to" Roccio has been the ruling king of the present club scene because lately new clubs are awakening from their repression of the past few months. What could this mean? In our own dreary, mortal world of fast-paced club life, all hell is breaking loose! Keoki's multi-club birthday party was enriched with London's Leigh Bowery and hundreds of little white mood enhancers. How X-citing! Say hello to Bloodbath a new club on 11th Ave between 21 and 22nd streets. This club, open on Friday and Saturday only, boasts an indoor pool and whirlpool. It's open from 1a.m. 'till 7a.m. or so, and it gets good around 3. Bring your bathing suit! It costs $5.00 to get in (unless you know Julie Jewels who by the way, has been named the official doorgirl at Danceteria). Say good-bye to Cooler, a fun, but short lived afterhours club with a roof. After 3 or 4 weeks, the cops closed it down because somebody was throwing beer bottles off the roof. Say hello to El Morocco, a Saturday's-only club on 54th St between 2nd and 3rd Avenues. Aside from a slight problem there a couple of weeks ago (some jerk was tossed out into the street for throwing an ash tray down the stairs), El Morocco seems to be doing just fine. The door is guarded by ex-Tunneler Susan Ainsworth, and Scott Curry does something, too. Say good-bye, and then hello again to Twilight Zone, which opened, closed, and recently re-opened again for fall. Say hello. A name-dropping invite for Andy Anderson's Monday's at Nowhere, produced only one appearance- RUDOLF. It's good to know that someone believes it is their God given right to DO every opening. Dianne Brill just returned from Paris (or got kicked out of France?) As the voluptuous model danced down the runway for Jean-Paul Gaultier, she fell off the stage. Onlooker and old friend, Stephen Saben said, "As usual, Diane landed on her feet." Still, nobody goes to Limelight. Thursday's are fun at the Thunderdome disco at IT. There are naked people, painted people, and free drinks galore. You never know who you'll run into there...The place is chock full o' Stars like LaHoma, Bella Bolski, Nikk Nasty and Stephan...Come on down!

KIDS: GET IT TOGETHER!

We all know that politics is really boring... Unfortunately you will have to face some facts pretty soon: Everything will move backwards very fast from now-on, and you, wether you think it's cool or not, you are going to be envolved. It;s up to you to decide if you are going to be only a passive spectator or if you're gonna raise Hell... Just look at some of the things that are happening NOW and imagine what's next...

Plus, our neo-fascist mayor is preparing a new law to close all clubs in NYC by... MIDNIGHT!!! Don't say this is impossible because, deep inside you KNOW it can happen any time!

IN THE FUTURE...

Secret policemen, Undercover Agents, CIA minions and Neo-Guardian Angels may forcefully O-D undesirable people to increase drug-hysteria in the american press...

Have Fun! Rudy

ark? The Tompkins Square Park Taskforce, a group of Community Board 3 members and local residents and squatters, will be meeting with city officials this month in order to stave off the mayor's attempts to flood the park with more cops and ball-park-style lighting, and sweep away the homeless.

proposal by the police department to increase the lighting in the park in order to dissuade criminal activity. Community residents want to prevent the city from installing the kind of stadium-style lights that illuminate Washington Square Park. This meeting will also take place at...

On Nov. 29, the Taskforce will meet with the various agencies investigating police actions during the Tompkins Square Park riot, including NYPD's Department of Internal Affairs, the Civilian Complaint Review Board, and the Manhattan District Attorney. Find out why three months after the brutal flogging of Lower East Side residents there have yet to be any police indictments. The meeting...

DUMP MAYOR KOCH

God bless America, Indeed! Home of the free and the brave? More like the home of the enslaved cowards! Do you really think that we are allowed to do as we please? I'm not talking about any sort of 60's radical movements either... I'm talking about your basic civil liberties, like walking, and breathing and DANCING! Yes, dancing! Did you know that Dictator Mayor Koch and his Fascist Regime are plotting to take away yet another freedom of ours in their insatiable urge to strip us all of our rights and power? Well, they ARE! Raising the drinking age from 19 to 21 was one of the first steps in the Koch's Repressive Plan. Sure, at 18 we can be forced to fight for our country, but we can't have a lousy can of beer!. Letting that go unchallenged was our first mistake. Now they feel as though they can do just about anything! Now that senile old nit wit wants to close clubs at midnight!!!! Can you believe such a thing? Would we stand for such atrocity? Lets hope not. In another time, this kind of repressive action might have brought about the burning of police cars and bombing of city buildings, (I'm not promoting that kind of behavior, mind you, I'm merely stating an unfortunate fact). He also got away with imposing a curfew in Tompkins Square Park because "freaks" are flawing their perfect society. The time will come and is unfortunately coming when people will be persecuted for being different, even in our own "liberal" city of New York. When Koch was first elected, N.Y. was in shambles and he did turn it around through construction and other programs. But now Mayor Koch has gone crazy, completely insane and gung-ho rich! He is totally against individualistic freedom. Remember, we are the future and in numbers we can make a difference. Don't allow the government control our every move!!!

tour

Did you ever want to go on one of those tours of celebrities homes in Hollywood? Well, the FASHION PATROL has the perfect answer for you... GRAVE LINE TOURS! For a mere $25.00 you get a 2½ hour tour (via hearse) of some of the most notorious murders, suicides, heart attacks, etc. You will see the spot where Marilyn Monroe posed for her nude calendar... for $50.00! The spot where Montgomery Cliff wrecked his car en route from a wild party at Liz Taylor's. See where Diane Linkletter jumped out of the building and where Robert Mitchum was busted for pot!! Just call (213) 392-5501 to be put on the list as a guest mourner. The tour starts at the corner of Hollywood Boulevard and Orchid, near the Bee Gee's star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. My personal favorite is the Highland Gardens Apartments where Janis Joplin opened a little red balloon that contained a bottle of heroin... ten times stronger than what she was used to. She boiled it down and shot it up. Suddenly, her body contorted with a jolt that threw her violently to the floor and well,...

Julie Jewels

Dear Jewels,

I've always been a confident, happy man. But lately everything seems to have gone wrong. I was fired from my job, my dog died, my girlfriend left me for a drag Queen, and I think I've got a social disease!

-Desperately Unhappy

Dear Unhappy,

Please don't send me such horrible letters, you are depressing me. This problem is too serious, PLEASE STOP!!

Dear Jewels,

I just bought this red scarf ( picture enclosed ) for the winter. What should I wear it with?

-Steven Lewis, N.Y.

Dear Steven,

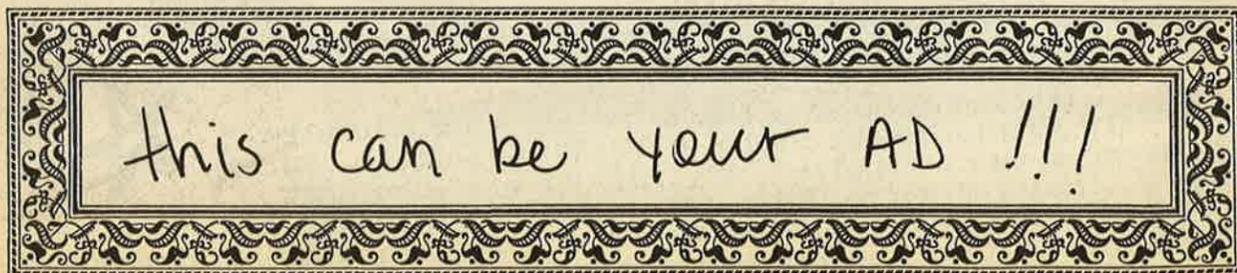

This could get very complicated. On the enclosed polaroid, the scarf looks orange. Orange is out for this winter, Red, on the other hand is very fashionable and should be worn over any monogramatic colored coat, (except green, orange or pink). Or even be a little more daring and get yourself a pair of red gloves!! Thanx for writing and send us a polaroid of the finished look.

CELEBRITY SHEET

BY JOHN SIMONE - 1988

Arlene Dahl

Quentin Crisp

I've come to accept the awful truth that I'm a celebrity addict. I'm ashamed. I just cannot control my proletariat desire to seek out and idolize those great achievers in our society. When I get to a club event I inevitably ask at the door if by chance any stars are "on the scene". I'm always questing but even I have the self-control and discretion not to get excited about your typical "New York Celebrities" - otherwise known as Soap stars or artists. I'm on the look out for a celebrity with an angle. It may be someone who will soon be very big or someone who once was very big. I love a good has been. Someone with a dark past or a certain charisma that hits me at gut level.

In Hairspray, Michael St. Gerard played Rikki Lake's boyfriend with a charm that surpassed every Brat that calls himself an actor. The kid is even pleasant in real life. Hopefully he will become a huge star and not deal in celebrity posturing like Judd and Sean and Emilio and...

You want a has been, I'll give you a has been! Arlene Dahl sure looks damn great and she carries the has been role off to a tee. This is Lorenzo Lamas' mother! This is Fernando 'You look Mahvelous' Lamas' wife. Like, hot damn Margo, this lady has surely seen it all. She now has a cable show all about staying beautiful and she knows the score. I say bring her back you stupid, myopic Hollywood execs. This lady is ripe and I mean ripe for a major comeback!

Now I say phewy to Mary Wilson's comeback. And ditto to any comeback for H. Voltage. In Wilson's case, who cares if she was a back-up Supreme. Diana Ross and her fake hair and prima-donna career maked me want to vomit. Wilson should have changed her name, come out with a killer album and put the sordid past behind. And she avoid posing for stupid photos.

How can you describe Quentin Crisp? Charming, fey, lavender-haired, inspirational and more would be a start. He rather pointedly claims to be "one of the stately homos of England". Now he belongs to New York and we are indeed a more civilized city for it. Quentin was a fixture on the London night scene in the forties. Everyone knew Crisp. You could say he was the Michael Musto of histime. Or vice-versa. Maybe Crisp could play Arlene Dahl's father in a sitcom?

Interesting Stories

by Fred Rothbell-Mista

Cha-Cha looked for his gun everywhere. He finally found it in his briefcase between his clear plastic pencilholder where he kept his money, a spare can of tunafish, and some bullets. If he couldn't have her, so bold and beautiful, neither could anyone else, especially that handsome stranger. He spied as she moved about her apartment with that certain glow that he was so fond of...even the way she picked food from her teeth was fabulous, an experience Cha-Cha would long remember. He raised the pistol and pointed it at her chest through the window. He raised his beady eyes toward heaven as he pulled the trigger and the bullet shut out. The force of the blast threw him off balance and he fell off the fire escape and landed in a trashbin full of slime and grease. He was pissed off! He wanted to see her squirm and writhe in pain and then perhaps he would save her, but it would be too tiring to climb back up. Instead he opted to go home, wash, change his clothes, have some tea, then do his nails and go back to check on her. Her head was reeling from the impact the bullet had on her newly wallpapered wall. It hadn't dawned on her that the bullet was meant to kill her! There was a knock on the door. "Are you alright?", a genteel but tres masculine voice said. "Why yes," she answered as the handsome stranger walked in. "I've come to take you away from all this", he said, "But first, I must comb my hair" He continued, "Do you have any mousse?" HOW RUDE! she thought, but she still went on to accompany him to "Cafe des Artistes" because she liked to sit with the rich and the pretentious and spray ob ene grafitti on the ladies room walls. She was upset by his attitude. Was he just like the rest? Was he only using her to make himself look good? Or was he just after her secret mud mask mix? There was only one answer: She remembered walking by that gyps fortune teller on 14th street. It was the place with the blue walls, blue carpet, and a blue couch. "I must go there" she thought, "It's the only way I'll know the truth about the handsome stranger and it's the only way to know if I'm really happy being a blonde".....

Continues in the next issue
